

Sales Performance & Revenue Insights Report

Objective

To analyze pizza sales data (48,000+ records) and identify key revenue drivers, customer demand patterns, and opportunities to improve overall business performance.

Key Findings

1. Peak Demand Patterns

- Friday (3,538 orders) is the highest performing day, followed by Thursday and Saturday
 - Sunday (2,624 orders) shows the lowest demand
 - 👉 Indicates strong weekend and pre-weekend consumption behavior

2. Monthly Sales Trends

- July recorded highest orders (1,935) followed by May and January
 - October (1,646) shows the lowest performance
 - 👉 Sales fluctuate seasonally, suggesting scope for targeted promotions in low months

3. Category-wise Revenue Contribution

- Classic category contributes highest revenue (26.91%)
 - Supreme (25.46%) and Chicken (23.96%) follow closely
 - 👉 Revenue is well distributed, but Classic category leads

4. Size-wise Sales Insights

- Large size pizzas dominate sales (46.37%)
 - Medium (29.78%) and Small (22.10%) follow
 - XL & XXL contribute negligible revenue
 - 👉 Customers strongly prefer larger portion sizes

5. Top Performing Products

Top 5 pizzas by revenue:

- The Thai Chicken Pizza (~43,434)
- The Barbecue Chicken Pizza (~42,768)
- The California Chicken Pizza (~41,409)
- The Classic Deluxe Pizza (~38,180)

Sales Performance & Revenue Insights Report

- The Spicy Italian Pizza (~34,831)

👉 Chicken-based pizzas dominate high revenue generation

6. Consistent High Performers

- Classic Deluxe Pizza ranks high in:
 - Quantity sold
 - Total orders
- 👉 Indicates strong and consistent customer preference

7. Underperforming Products

- The Brie Carre Pizza (~11,588)
 - The Green Garden Pizza (~13,955)
- 👉 These items contribute significantly less revenue

⚠️ Key Problems Identified

- Lower demand on Sundays and early weekdays
 - Certain products show consistently low performance
 - Heavy dependency on a few top-performing pizzas

💡 Business Recommendations

- Introduce weekday discounts or combo offers to boost low-day sales
 - Promote top-performing pizzas through targeted marketing campaigns
 - Re-evaluate or reposition low-performing products
 - Focus on large-size combos, as they drive maximum revenue
 - Plan seasonal campaigns during low-performing months like October
